

Call for Papers: 4th Discrimination and Diversity Workshop

Organised by Loughborough University, University of East Anglia, and University of Exeter

Discrimination against women and minority groups is an issue of ongoing discourse and its socioeconomic impact has gained much scholarly attention in recent years. Organisations and communities have engaged in wide-ranging practices to promote and encourage diversity, albeit with varying degrees of effectiveness. There remain open questions and much room for further research on these two frontiers.

To bring together scholars engaging in active research in these areas, we are organising our 4th Discrimination and Diversity Workshop on 2 and 3 July 2024, which will be held virtually to allow for greater inclusivity.

We are pleased to have the following special speakers confirmed:

- Jessica Pan (National University of Singapore)
- Sigrid Suetens (Tilburg University)

It is also our pleasure to welcome invited speakers to chair and lead discussions in sessions dedicated to these five topics:

- Inequalities in Education (by Simon Burgess, University of Bristol)
- LGBTQ+ Individuals (by Ian Burn, University of Liverpool)
- Stereotypes (by Katherine B. Coffman, Harvard Business School)
- Social Integration and Migrant Children (by Christina Felfe, University of Konstanz)
- Access to Healthcare (by Giulia Greco, London School of Hygiene & Tropical Medicine)

Given the virtual format of the workshop, we will have sessions that cater to different time zones. We especially encourage submissions from early-career researchers and doctoral students, and from all geographic areas.

Loughborough University, University of East Anglia, and University of Exeter will be funding up to two Outstanding Paper Awards, specifically targeted at recognizing and promoting the excellent work by junior researchers.

To submit your paper to the workshop, please submit an extended abstract (4,000 characters, or about 500 words) via the online form by 5 April 2024. We especially encourage submission of full papers if available. More information about our workshop can be found on our website.
